“ Just read of the passing of Angelo. Heartfelt condolences on the loss of a father and grandfather. I worked 1:1 with a client at Idelwyld and it was then that I met Angelo. Always friendly as he walked around in the lobby area. I'm not Italian but I always said 'buongiorno signore' and he'd always reply 'buongiorno Bella'. He often sat with me when I was with my client and told me of working on a cruise ship and the places he travelled to. Was an interesting man. The best and dearest memory is the morning, we were sitting, in the lobby and he sang an Italian song Mama. I didn't have to understand the lyrics to feel the beauty of the song and the love in his voice. It made me cry because that day was an anniversary of my mother's passing.

This past summer my nursing student daughter worked at Idelwyld. I described Angelo to her and asked her to say hello. She'd already met him and said he was very nice and that he sat and talked with her during her break.

A lovely man who will be remembered with a smile.

“ Thank you Marianne for the lovely message. It brings a smile to my face reading this. The stories he shared with you are the stories he would share with my brother and I. I'm glad he spent his last final years with his family at Idelwyld.

Much love
